Required Equipment: enough water for all day, rain gear, first aid kit, lunch or snacks.

Recommended Equipment: Trekking poles, two way radio set to channel 6, hat, sunscreen

Cautions and Special Preparations: higher altitude can be a problem to some people

Description: This is a continuation of Arizona trail from the week before. We will start at Aspen Corner and follow the aspen trail to the Az. Trail for about a 1/8 of a mile. Once on the Az. Trail we will head south to Shultz Pass Junction for approximately 11 miles with a decrease in altitude of about 1000 ft. and going back up another 400 ft.
 This will only work if we get enough people to car shuttle from Shultz Pass to Aspen Corner which is part way up on the Snow Bowl road. If we don't get enough people, then we will just start the hike at Shultz Pass and head North toward Aspen Corner and turn around at some point that everyone is in agreement with.

The reason I changed this hike from Kendrick Peak is because the Kendrick Peak area is closed because of fire conditions.

Driving Directions: From Phoenix area drive North on I-17 to Flagstaff. Continue through Flagstaff to HWY 180 and turn left and go to Shultz Pass road and hwy 180. If you pass the Shell gas station then you missed the turn. We will meet at Shultz Pass road and hwy 180.
